Miss Wynne's Recital.

An event of exceptional interest to music lovers occurred Monday evening, when the first concert of the Faculty series for this season was given. The program consisted of a Piano Recital by Addie Givens Wynne, an efficient member of the Conservatory staff.

The superior pianism of the gifted young lady is well known in this community, where her reappearance is always welcomed and highly appreciated by those who esteem brilliant and artistic piano playing.

The program for Monday night happily combined classical, romantic and modern selections; and in the different groups the versatility of the players attainments was manifest.

The Mozart number was heard here for the first time. Miss Wynne played the Pastorale with a liquid clearness that constitutes the charm of such a composition.

The familiar "Moonlight" Sonata was executed with a beautiful singing melody in the first movement; the Menuet, in simple, characteristic style; and the last movement with great freedom and abandon.

Without individual comment the Spinning Song was a specially grateful number, and the audience would have gladly heard it again.

The Modern Group consisting of a French, Russian, and two Italian selections made a delightful third part. The audience demanded a repetition of the Raindrop. And after the sombre Album Leaf by Gull, the very difficult Tocatta made a brilliant close to the following choice program:

Pastorale Varié - Mozart
Sonata quasi una Fantasia op. 27 No. 2 - Beethoven
Adagio sostenuto - Chopin
Allegretto - Chopin
Presto agitato - Chopin

Prelude, G major - Chopin
Nocturne, F minor - Chopin
Intermezzo, B minor - Schumann
Das Spinnlied - Mendelssohn

Myosotis - Widor
The Raindrop - Kopylov
Album Leaf - Gull
Tocatta - Scambatti

Mooreland-McFadin.

Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McFadin, east of Lexington, was the scene of a home wedding that will long be remembered by the guests as one of the most beautiful in appointment they had ever attended.

Preceding the appointed hour and immediately after the guests had assembled, Miss Mildred Martin sang, "O Promise Me." The bridal party then entered to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Dora Peacock, the principals being Mr. John Reid Mooreland and Miss Frances Evelyn McFadin, accompanied by their attendants, Mr. Buford Gordon and Miss Elizabeth Morrison. The couple then stood before the improvised altar of palms and ferns while Rev. S. Boyd White united them, using the ring ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony refreshments were served to the bridal couple, the attendants and guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McFadin, one of the oldest and most highly respected families in this community. She is a young woman of charming manner, refined, and in every way fitted to preside over a home. Mr. Mooreland is to be congratulated upon winning her.

Mr. Mooreland was born and raised in Lexington, where he is well known as a young man of excellent reputation and fine business ability.

The couple received many valuable and useful presents. After the festivities they drove to Lexington, where they will make their home with the groom's mother, Mrs. Mamie Mooreland.

The Intelligencer wishes the young couple years of happiness and prosperity.

A SPLENDID CONCERT

Central College Faculty Should Return.

The concert given at the M. E. Church, South, Monday evening, by Prof. Conrad and his trio of assistants from Central College was a splendid success. The names of Prof. Conrad, Mrs. Allen, Misses Hill and Powell on any program carry assurance of a first class entertainment. That this was fully recognized and appreciated by the large audience, was evidenced by the hearty applause which greeted every number on the program. Such entertainments are of immense value, educationally, in any community, and it is to be hoped Higginsville may have the opportunity of hearing another program given at some future time, by the music faculty of Central College. —Higginsville Jeffersonian.

Alvin Maxwell returned to his home in St. Louis yesterday morning after a few days' visit with relatives in this city.

Col. Tilton Davis returned Wednesday evening from a business trip to Kansas City. He was accompanied home by his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Robinson of Hickard, Arkansas.

John Hix returned Friday from a business trip to St. Louis.

One Chicken Thief Less.

Sunday morning about two o'clock night watchman Rogers heard a disturbance in the chicken house of Ben Bernsten, near Ninth and Franklin streets. On investigation the officer found Stanup Hays in the act of lifting some chickens. He called to the nigger that he was under arrest, when said nigger swiped the officer with a fowl and then started to run. Mr. Rogers commanded the thief to halt and fired into the air to more fully impress him to obey the summons; but, not so, the fleeing thief quickened his pace and was about to make his get away over a fence, when Mr. Rogers aimed low hitting the thief below the hip. The bullet plowed through the abdominal cavity and came out near the right side. The negro, after he was hit, ran over two blocks to the home of Lizzie Banks, where the officers found him. The negro lived until Sunday evening.

Hays came from a bad set. His brother, Lum, was killed on the streets only a few years ago. Two brothers, Bishop and Jack, have served terms in the penitentiary, and Hays, the one killed Sunday, has served a penitentiary term besides innumerable jail sentences.

Mr. Rogers' promptness in handling this affair is very commendable, and no doubt will have its effect in suppressing this form of lawlessness.

E. S. VanAnglen, an old and highly respected citizen of Higginsville died Monday night. He was over eighty years of age.

Mr. VanAnglen is survived by three daughters and one son, and are as follows: Mrs. W. T. Journey, Mrs. Hugh McElroy, Miss Lizzie VanAnglen and E. S. VanAnglen.
